Q: Is the programme at Heguru @ Fusionopolis suitable for kids with special needs, like autism?

A: The programme we offer is suitable for all children, including those with autism. Currently, we do have children with special needs attending our classes. They enjoy the classes accompanied by parents and can participate in activities alongside their friends in class.

Q: How has Heguru helped your own children?

A: As a mother I started right brain training with both my children before they turned 12 months.

My daughter started reading at 3 years old, and even when she was 10 months old, I realised she was able to comprehend my instructions and pick up the right flashcards of animals.

My son, too, focuses well in preschool thanks to Heguru. Both kids enjoy learning and attending classes at Heguru.

Q: How are the teachers at Heguru @ Fusionopolis trained?

A: All our main teachers are sent to Japan for training and understand the underlying philosophies for each activity.

They are passionate and dedicated to children and are able to deliver the lessons with the end goals in mind – how to best stimulate the child's right brain.

We have 2 teachers per class. The excellent student to teacher ratio helps the children engage well in lessons that are fast paced, engaging and fun.

Q: What can parents expect when they send their children for lessons at Heguru @ Fusionopolis?

A: Parents typically accompany their children for the infant and toddler classes. They will be able to find out what their children's learning needs are and what activities their children enjoy most and develop their interest.

We also have a lot of songs and dances which require the children to move around, providing a fun way for children to participate in and absorb the information we are imparting.

Our capable teachers will also share tips with parents on what kind of home practice to do catered to their child's specific needs. For example, we can show parents how to do simple 10-15 minutes daily home practice exercises (e.g. flashcards and memory games).
